

Leeds Cancer Programme – guidance for cancer patients and carers

1st April 2020

In these extraordinary times, Macmillan's priority is the health and wellbeing of people with cancer, Macmillan professionals, our staff, supporters and volunteers.

Like everyone, we are working out what these new and difficult circumstances mean for us as we know that our services supporting people with cancer will be needed even more than ever.

Macmillan nurses, doctors and other health professionals across the country are continuing to support people living with cancer whilst doing all they can to help alleviate the immense strain put on the NHS by coronavirus. Everyone can play their part in supporting the NHS by following government guidance to stay at home.

We are doing everything we can to make sure our vital support continues to be available for much needed clinical advice, financial information and emotional support during this difficult time.

Comprehensive cancer information and support, including our latest guidance on the impact of coronavirus on cancer care and how to keep yourself healthy, physically and mentally and mentally if you are self isolating or shielding, is available on www.macmillan.org.uk and our online community continues to provide invaluable emotional and peer support. The Macmillan Support Line is open Monday - Friday between 9am-5pm on 0808 808 00 00.

For further information or queries on how this may affect you, please contact:

Leeds.cancerprogramme@nhs.net

@LeedsCancerProg